Engineering Humour: Technology can be Amusing

Three Engineers

There are three engineers in a car going for a drive. The first is a mechanical engineer, the second an electronics engineer and the third is a software engineer.

Fortunately, the mechanical engineer is driving because the brakes fail as they are going downhill. The mechanical engineer eventually brings the car safely to a halt and gets out to examine the hydraulic systems.

The electronics engineer gets out and checks the body computer, ABS system and the power train CAN bus.

The software engineer stays in the car and when queried about it says that they should all just get back in the car and see if it happens again!